

Steven Lewis Mogford

Chief Executive Officer
SELEX Galileo

Steve Mogford is CEO for SELEX Galileo, a Finmeccanica company, and has a lifetime of international experience within the defence and aerospace industry. Steve has a first class (Hons) combined degree in Astrophysics / Mathematics / Physics awarded at London University.

He began his career in 1977 with British Aircraft Corporation in Preston, Lancashire as a supply engineer. This began his long association with BAE Systems and in April 2000 Steve was appointed to the Board of BAE Systems as Chief Operating Officer - Programmes with wide ranging responsibility for the reconfiguration of the fixed wing military air and naval businesses following the acquisition of Marconi. Under his leadership, these businesses became one of the most successful parts of the group.

In September 2006 Steve was invited to join the Board of Carillion plc as a non executive director.

Steve joined SELEX Galileo (the UK and Italian leader in sensing and situation awareness and protection) in May 2007.

Steve lives in Lancashire with his wife and two daughters.